A copy of a memordandum of arms given him at the Heralds College, which describes with technical precision his own arms, the arms of his mother who it states was sole heiress of the Hoskins family, and the arms of his wife Dorothy Walker, made in the handwriting of his son Thomas not later than 1728, a facsimile of which accompanies this sketch, is with the "Jones Papers" in the Library of Congress; his arms are the arms of a family named Ap-John who located in Nottinghamshire at an early day, whose arms and pedigree are set forth in the heralds Visitation of Surrey, 1623, and is the family to which Capt. Roger Jones most likely belonged; the transition of the name from Ap-John to Ap Jones, and Jones, is familiar to genealogists and was of such frequent occurrence as to become practically unavoidable. The arms are very ancient, and the fact that one is entitled to bear them proves him to be a lineal descendant of the Welsh nobleman Moreiddig Warwyn who first assumed them, whose pedigree Welsh authorities trace to a knight of the Round Table and through the knight to a "kinge of Great Brittain nowe called England." It is evident that a man whose family consisted of two sons only, who was so loyal to monarchal traditions that he would give to the elder son a handsome estate, and to his younger and equally worthy son "one shilling & noe more," must have been a staunch Royalist, although, like some of the Fairfaxes, he may not have approved everything of which the Stuarts were guilty.

The word mariner was then used in a much more restricted sense than it is now used; then it meant a soldier of the seas, and in parish records it was the one word that would follow the name of a man or officer of the navy of lower rank than captain. Sir Wm. Monson, writing circa 1642, says: "The experienced valiant sea-soldier and mariner, who knows how to manage a ship and maintain a Sea-Fight judicially  is only fit to be a Captain or Commander at Sea." A youth of the rank of Roger Jones or his father would almost certainly begin his career as a midshipman, which the Oxford dictionary, referring to this early period, defines as "A sort of naval cadet, appointed by the captain of a ship of war;" In course of time he would get to be a lieutenant, but he would still be addressed as Mr. Roger Jones, at best, and if he applied for license to get married he would appear in the record as Roger Jones, mariner. Quoting again from Sir Wm. Monson: "A lieutenant is chosen by the Captain, and it is necessary that he be a man of experience as himself. A Lieutenant is an Employment for a Gentleman, well bred, who knows how to entertain Ambassadors, Gentlemen, and Strangers, when they come aboard, either in Presence or Absence of the Captain."

6–Col. Thomas Jones (1672-76-1757), settled at Williamsburg, Va., 1702; merchant and extensive landholder and tobacco planter; was in London, 1706 where, at the Virginia Coffee House, he received a cordial invitation from Lady Culpeper (relict of Thomas Lord Culpeper, Baron of Thornsway, etc.) to visit Leeds Castle then the home of Lady Culpeper, it is addressed "For Mr. Thomas Jones at the virginia coffee house, at London," is headed "Leeds Castle December the 19th, 1706," and closes "My daughter and her seven children are all very well, this is all from, Sr, Yr. affectionate friend & servant, Mar Culpeper;" he was in London, 1712, when he entered into contract with Robert Cary, merchant, of London, by which merchandise valued at £1,464 was consigned to him at Williamsburg; prior to the year 1731 he had taken up and patented various tracts of land in several different counties, amounting to 42,765 acres, much of this was divided into plantations which he worked with slaves under overseers, shipping large quantities of tobacco annually to London, Liverpool, Glasgow, Bristol, etc.; he was associated with Gov. Spotswood and Robert Beverly in iron mining and manufacture, they having a patent for 15,000 acres known as the Ironmine Land; was one of the first aldermen of Willamsburg (1722); represented William and Mary College in the House of Burgesses (1720-22); m Feb. 14, 1725, Elizabeth Pratt (b Aug. 29, 1701), widow of Wm. tained by Capt. Roger Jones at the Heralds College, a facsimile of which accompanies this sketch, was taken from the folds of the letter in which it was originally enclosed, dated "Virginia, July ye 22th, 1728," written by this Thomas Jones to his wife, then in London, and reads in part as follows: "My Dearest Life: 'I doubt not but you was in great expectation of hearing from me by the Ships that sail'd in June last, which Omission carries with it its due punishment having been under the greatest concern imaginable ever Since; However I know your Mother then writ to you very particularly about our family, who could give you the Satisfaction of letting you know that we were all very well. And I gave you the Same Acct the 7th Inst by Capt. "I have sent you a Copy of my Father's Coats his own and that of his Mothers; he having a right to the latter as she was an Heiress, and as he was the only surviving descendant from her, which I shou'd like better than the 'tother, only as I am the younger Bror it may not be my Right to make my Option, or if it is, may be improper, in which you may be informed at the Heralds Office near St. Pauls Church Yard for ha: a Guinea or a Guinea you may also be informed what Livery is proper to be given, I know my father gave one but 'tis now near thirty years agoe Since I Saw it at a time when I took little notice of such things, which I think you had best take down in writing. I am very willing to have the three Coats here describ'd Vizt. Jones, Hoskins, Walker, and your own in one piece as you have Seen the first three here."

5–Col. Thomas Jones, eldest son (born Xmas Day, 1726), appointed clerk of Northumberland Co., 1749, for life, and held the office until his death; colonel of Va. militia; elected state senator, 1780, for the counties of Lancaster, Richmond, and Northumberland, to succeed Francis Lightfoot Lee who resigned, but was disqualified by the fact that he held another civil office; always addressed and referred to as Colonel Thomas Jones, as his father had been before him; residence in Northumberland Co. called Mount Zion; m Sally Skelton, dau.

of James Skelton and his wife Jane Meriwether, dau. of Francis Meriwether (first clerk of Essex Co.) and his wife Mary Bathurst, dau. of Lancelot Bathurst, who came to Va., 1683, sheriff of New Kent Co., 1698, 5th son of Sir Edward Bathurst, 1st baronet, and his 2d wife Susan Rich. Mrs. Jones received from her brother Meriwether Skelton the beautiful estate in Hanover Co. known as Spring Garden, which the family in later years made their home, and became known as the Spring Garden Joneses; her brother Bathurst Skelton m Martha (Patty) Wayles who as Bathurst's widow married Thomas Jefferson. The Spring Garden family were noted duelists; Skelton Jones fought several duels some of which terminated fatally for his antagonists; both he and his brother Meriwether lost their lives in duels, and others of the family were similarly involved. Meriwether Jones was elected to the State Senate and became a member of the Privy Council or Council of State, both of which positions he resigned in order to champion more effectually the views of government entertained by him; he founded the Richmond Examiner (newspaper) and edited it with great success until he was killed in a duel. Skelton Jones then became editor of the Examiner, and also undertook to complete Burk's history of Virginia. Of the latter undertaking the editor of Hening's Statutes at Large in a footnote to Vol. 1, 1812 edition, says: "They [the Byrd MSS] are now in the possession of Skelton Jones, Esq., who has undertaken to complete the history of Virginia, left unfinished by his predecessor. From the well known talents of this gentleman, and his celebrity as a writer, the public, it is believed, will have no cause to regret the change of historians, notwithstanding the deservedly high reputation of Mr. Burk as an author."

John Daly Burk, of the family to which the great orator belonged, undertook to write a history of Virginia and had completed three volumes when he was killed in a duel. Skelton Jones and Louis Hugh Gerardin, a French gentleman, undertook to complete the history, but were both killed in duels before they had really completed the fourth volume.

4–Major Thomas ap Thomas Jones, of Bathurst, Essex Co., Va., eldest son (1755-1800); on Feby. 19, 1776, when 21 years of age, he enlisted in the 2d Va. Regt. which had just been put on a Continental basis with his kinsman William Woodford, a veteran of the Indian wars, as its colonel, and was made a 1st lt. (Saffell); his younger brother Catesby was already a 1st lt. in the same regt. Catesby became the father of Commodore Thos. ap Catesby Jones who as a young lieutenant commanded the flotilla of gunboats that engaged the British fleet on Lake Borgne in defense of New Orleans, of which Fennimore Cooper says: "Although the loss of this division of gunboats was a serious impediment to the defense of New Orleans, both the country and the service looked upon the result of the combat as a triumph.  In consequence of this defense it is usually thought, in the service, to bestow as much credit on an officer to have been present at the defeat of Lake Borgne, as to have been present at a signal victory;" Catesby was also the father of Major-General Roger Jones, U.S.A., the father of late Inspector-General Roger Jones, U.S.A., and of Catesby ap Roger Jones, C.S. Navy, who commanded the Merrimac that fought the Monitor in Hampton Roads, Mar. 9, 1862. He Thomas, was later made adjutant general of artillery with the rank of lt. col. by the State of Va., as appears in Council Journal 1777-78, pages 185-6, under date of Jan. 27, 1778, to-wit: "The General Assembly having by their Resolution of the 23d of the present month, directed among other things, that an adjutant general be appointed by the Governor and Council of some active, studious and intelligent citizen of this State, who is to follow the Inspector General of Artillery, &c., appointed by another Resolution of the same date, and to rank as Lieutenant Colonel, and the said Inspector General having strongly recommended Thomas Jones, jun., Esquire for that office, a gentleman who has served a considerable time in the Second Virginia Regiment and who appears to possess the qualifications required by the Resolution—the Board do therefore advise his Excellency to commissionate that Gentleman, accordingly a commission was issued dated this day;" the purpose for which the appointment was made having ceased to operate, he was later made a major in the Continental Army and as far as appears was always addressed by that title; m 1777, Elizabeth (d.s.p. 1777), dau. of Sir Jonathan Beckwith, baronet, son of Sir Marmaduke Beckwith, Bart., of Richmond Co., Va.; m 2d, 1781-82, Fanny Carter (1764-1796), 3d dau. of Councillor Robert Carter of "Nomini Hall," mother of all of his children; of Fanny Carter, Philip Fithian has this to say in his diary: "Fanny next, is in her Person, according to my judgment, the Flower in the Family—she has a strong resemblance to her Mama who is an elegant, beautiful woman—Miss Fanny seems to have a Sedateness, & simplicity in her countenance, which is always rather cheerful than melancholy; She has nothing with which we can find Fault in her person, but has something in the Features of her face which insensibly pleases us & always when she draws our Attention, & much more because there seems to be for every agreeable Feature a correspondent Action which improves and adorns it." Major Jones owned a schooner called the "Polly", a sailboat which was manned by his slaves, on which he and family would take long excursions up the bay, going as far up as Baltimore. His will, dated May 14, 1800, proved July 21, 1800, by his brothers Skelton and Jekyll, is recorded in Essex county, Va.

3–Thomas ap Thomas Jones, only son (1784-1843), of Bathurst, Va., came to Harrods Station, Ky., 1810, later settled in Clark Co., Ky.; b Va., 1784, m in the spring of 1809, Elizabeth Fauntleroy (1790-91-1865), b Mars Hill, Richmond Co., Va., 1790-91, dau. of Griffin Murdock Fauntleroy of Mars Hill, and his wife Anne Belfield, b Nov. 17, 1754, dau. of John Belfield and Ruth Sydnor, of Va.; he received Bathurst under his father's will, which was beautifully situated on a valuable farm, and sold it in 1810 for £3950, and, as he states in his diary, on "Monday 16th of October, 1810, set off for the State of Kentucky about 3 oclock P.M., and got to Tappahannock about dark;" from his diary, dated "Harrods Station, Kentucky, June 15, 1812," we make this quotation: "When I was married I examined the state of my pecuniary matters and discovered myself indebted to different persons to the am't £1,441 "3 which I have paid from the sale of my stock, &c., which leaves me £4,216 in bonds and about 50 Negroes;" he purchased land in Clark Co. on which he built a commodious brick house in which he and his wife lived until they died, he in 1843, she in 1865; in the court records of Clark Co. we find this entry (Nov., 1819): "A majority of the Justices of this county being present doth recomend unto his Excellency the Governor Thos. ap Jones and John G. Allan as fit and proper persons to fill the office of a Justice of the peace in this County in the place of Isaac Hockaday, Deceased (he received the appointment); and this —"Jany Court, 1820, Present Thomas ap Jones, Esq." In the "Jones Papers," in the Library of Congress, is a list of twenty-three pictures left by him in Virginia, which have never been recovered, Viz.—"4 family pictures, 1 fruit piece, 4 hunting pieces, 5 Hogarths," etc., etc., and he adds "the large picture is 5 feet high,  my grandmother 3 feet 1 inch, my grandfather about 3 feet 1 inch." He hauled everything in wagons, over the mountains, along roads little better than Indian trails—he left the family pictures, but he brought the little old hair trunk, full of family correspondence, deeds, wills, marriage settlements, etc., dating far back in the seventeenth century, illustrating in the most intimate and authentic manner the life of the family for generations. He was an accomplished gentleman, highly intellectual and broadly informed. In early life he went to Richmond to read law under his Uncle Skelton Jones, but soon abandoned the idea. He was much in and around Richmond and Baltimore, and became acquainted with many interesting people. Before he left Virginia he came near being involved in a duel with a Capt. Y—g whose timely apology alone, it appears, averted a meeting. His father's will is largely devoted to providing for the education and proper bringing up of his young family under the best moral and religious influence. It makes his uncle, Dr. Walter Jones, the guardian of Thomas, who in several of his letters remonstrates with him about his extravagance. As to Dr. Walter Jones, there appears this reference to him in the Jones family history, the book "Jones of Virginia," or Capt. Roger Jones of London and Virginia, etc., Viz.: "Dr. Walter Jones, M.D., father of the eminent lawyer, General Walter Jones of Washington, D.C., born Dec. 18, 1745; for several years a student of medicine at Edinburgh, Scotland, where he graduated June 12, 1769; was an eminent physician of extensive practice; was a member of Congress in 1806, and afterward, from the famous Westmoreland district.

"His residence, called Hayfield, was in Lancaster County. At a very early period he was sent to school at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, where he became the schoolmate and fast friend of youths who afterward became conspicuous in their country's history. Thomas Jefferson was there, and Bathurst Skelton, rivals even then for the favors of little Miss Wayles; and the friendship there begun, or cemented between him and Bathurst and Jefferson continued during their lives. In a letter written by him at this time to his brother Thomas whose wife was a sister of Bathurst Skelton, he mentions Bathurst, who was his room-mate, and says, 'Bathurst desires me to tell his sister, that he would have wrote her a Dozen Letters but could not tell what to put in them, but he still says, that if she insists upon it, he will write her a Sheet of Compliments & Love, &c., &c., &c., he is also learning French & is much the most studious Person in the College.'

"Mr. George Donald, under date of Oct. 8th, 1769, writes: 'Enclosed you'll rece. a letter from your brother Walter wch came to my hands some days ago. This will no doubt inform you that he has taken his degree of M.D., and that he intends to Virginia in the Spring. I have the pleasure also to inform you that among the several letters I have received lately from Scotland, Dr. Jones is mentioned as a person of the first merit. A very sensible gentleman in Glasgow (Mr. Kippen) particularly says that Dr. Jones is the most shining young gent. of his profession now in Edinburgh, and that he will make a great figure wherever he goes." He was the father of the great lawyer General Walter Jones, of Washington, who for many years was engaged in most of the important cases argued before the Supreme Court. Of him Bishop Pinckney writes: "He united in a wonderful degree the most opposite qualities, brilliancy and depth, and poured forth the stream of his rich and original thought in a fluency not more wonderful for its richness than for its classic purity." And the following from a private contemporary note of the argument in the Girard will case: "Hon. Daniel Webster opens his argument in the Girard will case with a eulogy on Gen. Jones, extolling his generosity and magnanimity; the simplicity, modesty, and beauty of his character, as well as his transcendant talents, closing his panegyric by stating that Gen. Jones had had few equals, and no superiors at the bar."

IMMIGRANT ANCESTORS

Following is a list of immigrant ancestors, with identifying biographical data, whose names appear so frequently in the preceding pages that repetition of the data in the lineage records would have been superfluous. Hence, where the following names appear in lineage records, the use of the cross-reference (qv) was adopted, referring to this particular section of the book for further information.

It should be understood, however, that this is not a complete list of the immigrant ancestors whose names are in the book. It includes only such names as appear most frequently, and omits immigrant ancestors whose names appear only occasionally in the lineage records.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX OF NAMES

VOLUME ONE

Since the "heart" of any genealogical work is its alphabetical index of names, and since it is one of the chief purposes of this work to index America genealogically, the following alphabetical index of names in VOLUME ONE is repeated herewith.

This index is the key to upwards of Ten Thousand American lineages, and since the volume may be consulted in practically every public library in the country and in most of the chapter libraries of the patriotic-hereditary societies, this great mass of data are thus made readily available to the public permanently.

Names in bold face type are the subjects of lineage records in Volume One, and numbers in bold face type indicate the page upon which the record appears in Volume One.

VOLUME ONE

The foregoing alphabetical index of names in Volume One graphically illustrates the size and scope of that volume. Its 1,148 pages contain upwards of Ten Thousand lineages—the boiled-down essence of the bibliography of American Genealogy.

Volume One is the foundation upon which the genealogical history of the American Nation is being compiled and succeeding volumes can only supplement and not supplant it.

It is the one volume which will be valued above all others of this series, not for its intrinsic value, but because the greatest part of the data in it can be found nowhere else in print and probably never will appear in print elsewhere.

Fortunate, therefore, is the library possessing the initial volume, since available copies of it are becoming scarcer daily and within a short time may be had only at a premium, if at all. While the supply lasts orders will be filled at the publication price of $22.00.

For information address: F. A. Virkus & Company, Publishers, 440 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX OF NAMES IN VOLUME TWO

Names in bold face type indicate the subjects of preceding records, and numbers in bold face type indicate the page upon which the record appears.

This index was compiled with the view of providing, as nearly as possible, an index of ancestors, and at the same time of furnishing the maximum amount of data in the simplest form.

Every man mentioned in the lineages in the preceding pages is listed in this index; but his wife's name has been omitted from the index because its inclusion would more than double the number of names without any appreciable advantage. It is only in rare instances that a genealogical investigator does not know the name of the father or husband of the woman whose name he is seeking, and the names of the father and husband are listed in the index when known.

However, women who are the subjects of the lineage records are listed in the index in bold face type under their maiden names or, if married, under their married names. The husbands and fathers of these women are also listed in proper alphabetical order.

The names of unmarried children (or not recorded as married) of present generations have been omitted from the index for the reason that the father's name is the only name of genealogical importance in present generations. But the names of children of present generations are listed in the index, and in bold face type, when they themselves are the subjects of records, and also to show intermarriages.
